- No OpenbravoERP versus ADempiere or OpenERP today
- Using the freedom
- OpenbravoERP modules
- From 9 to 5 or from a 5 to a 9
- Continue support and development on subscription base
- B-ORANGE

- ✓ Access to a leading ERP...
- ✗ ... prior payment of licenses
- ✗ Lock-in to a single vendor
- ✗ Limited possibilities to adapt the software to SMB specific needs
- ✓ Basic guarantees
- ✓ Usually, still client-server application
- ✓ Solid company and a large partner network

- ✓ Access to a state-of-the art ERP...
- ✓ ... with no need to pay for licenses!
- ✓ Freedom! No vendor lock-in!
- ✓ No limitations to adapt the solution to SMB needs (the way it should be!)
- ✓ Response/resolution guarantees!
- ✓ Web-based! Always available!
- ✓ Backed-up professional network of partners in constant expansion

- Open source is not about “for free”
- Open source is all about :
 - If functions are not in the core (yet) it easily can be made the way it should be.
 - Not the vendor is required to make the changes.
 - The freedom to adopt all your needs into your ERP system.
 - The only discussion is a business discussion
 - “is the solution worth it's cost”

ERP is NOT a piece of software that just gets installed and is ready to be used. An ERP is a business solution that requires of an implementation process!

Success!

Failure!

- Open source off the opportunity to
 - Fundamental and continue development
 - Service offerings without (technical) limits
 - Organic growth in using ERP
 - Using software (product/financial/client knowledge you gain form it) as business benefit
 - Switch partner / supplier if needed.
